

WAR ON ARENXIS MINORIS

Thought for the day: A mind without purpose will wander in dark places

Welcome to Arenxis Minoris!

War has come to the Arenxis System!

Beginning on October 2nd, Legio Malaysia will be launching the "The Liberation of Arenxis Minoris" Warhammer 40,000 campaign. This will be a simple, story driven, campaign using the Planetary Empires system that is open to armies of all types. This campaign will last for four to six weeks, and games will be played during Hobby Night at Battlefront Miniatures Malaysia.

Full campaign rules will be posted shortly. This campaign is being run by Azlan "Spunkybass" Ramli- those interested in playing should contact him directly or through the Legio Malaysia email.

So, gather your armies and fight for the Imperium, its enemies, or something altogether your own! Leave your mark on this story, and help to create the future history that will launch even larger and more ambitious campaigns than this one!

EQUIPMENT LOSSES ENDANGER NEW GUARD OFFENSIVE

In an unprecedented move, the Adeptus Munitorum Effadian (AME) has issued equipment shortage warnings across warzones in 11 separate systems. These warnings, among other things, require AME adept primus approval for all new campaign actions made by Imperial Guard commanders.

"While we do not wish to meddle in the affairs of Lords Militant, the war material supply has become dangerously low. Measures must be taken.", Adept Primus Davis declared at a recent vox conference at Arenxis Minoris orbital station Bellephos. "Order must be restored. Munitions must flow."

Space Marine forces in the Arenxis system have invoked the Edict Imperialis, essentially bypassing these requirements and maintaining uninterrupted fuel supplies. No Astartes commanders were available for comment, though it is known that the Marines Malevolent, Ultramarines, and Red Scorpions have all turned in Edicts Imperialis.

With armored regiments unable to advance due to extreme fuel shortages, Septimus Hive remains occupied by foul abominations like this

The ominous question that few seem able to answer is when control of the vital forges and refineries will be restored. It is known that Chaos Space Marine warbands, including the dreaded "Unclean" have descended on Arenxis Minoris, taking control of most of the planetary surface. Regiments of Arenxis Planetary Defense have been mobilized, along with as yet unnamed regiments mustered from across the Effadian Sector.

The stage has been set for one of the most apocalyptic conflicts to ever blight the face of Arenxis Minoris. Let the scourge of Chaos and the xeno be cleansed!

ARENXIS MINORIS— SUMMARY

Segmentum Obscuras

Effadian Sector

Glenmarie Sub-Sector

Arenxis System

Tithe Grade: Exactis Extremis

Forge World

Population: 2.7 billion

Initially colonized in 723M.36, Arenxis Minoris is the primary supplier of munitions and heavy machinery for the Glenmarie Sub-Sector, as well as key worlds across the Effadian Sector. As supplies become scarce, armies bent on controlling it have descended on this world. Foul xenos and unholy abominations of the Ruinous Powers have laid siege to its cities. A world hangs in the balance...
